

Recreation Residence Paint List 4/10/2018

Choosing the right colors for cabins and outbuildings helps to meet the goals of the Recreation Residence program to prevent urbanization and maintain the natural forest setting. We look for colors that will cause buildings to almost “disappear” when viewed from a distance. These are generally darker and muted shades of brown and green.

Below are examples of colors that allow buildings to blend into in the forest landscape. Other brands and colors that match these colors may be used after a sample is submitted and Forest Service written approval is received.

Written approval is required prior to all painting.

The colors on this paint list may be used for either the cabin base color or trim.

The manufacturer or brand is in bold underlined with the paint color names below.

Recreation Residence “Trim Only” Paint List – 4/10/2018

Choosing the right colors for cabins and outbuildings helps to meet the goals of the Recreation Residence program to prevent urbanization and maintain the natural forest setting. We look for colors that will cause buildings to almost “disappear” when viewed from a distance. These are generally darker and muted shades of brown and green.

“Trim Only” colors are lighter shades to be used only for the trim around windows and doors.

Below are examples of colors that can be approved only for the trim around windows and doors. Other brands and colors that match these colors may be used after a sample is submitted and Forest Service written approval is received.

Written approval is required prior to all painting.

The manufacturer or brand is in bold underlined with the paint color names below it.
